Research and innovation for sustainable growth: the case of Bergamo and Brescia ecosystems

The University of Bergamo and the University of Brescia, in partnership with Regione Lombardia EU Delegation in Brussels, will present the joint research and innovation strategies of the two Universities.

The event will focus on two important areas in which both Universities are particularly active and have generated impactful research:

- sustainable manufacturing ecosystems
- valorisation of territorial and cultural assets

This initiative offers a unique opportunity to strengthen a constructive dialogue by sharing insights on these major topics, and paving the way to collaborations and synergies that may catalyze further advancements in research, innovation, and sustainable development.
