www.euroserpin.eu

We are pleased to invite you to EUROSERPIN2025, to be held in the unique renaissance surroundings of the Cloister of San Faustino, within the University of Brescia. This conference will bring together international researchers to share their work on serpin-related topics, including cellular, structural and biochemical mechanisms underlying physiology and pathology, genetics, diagnostics and therapeutics. As well as providing a forum to discuss your latest research, the conference will allow researchers and students at all levels the opportunity to exchange ideas and explore shared funding opportunities.

We cannot wait to see you in Brescia, amongst the cultural, culinary and natural landscapes of northern Italy!
